

THE MICIC INITIATIVE

The Migrants in Countries in Crisis (MICIC) Initiative, a government-led effort co-chaired by the Governments of the United States and the Philippines, aims to improve the protection of migrants when the countries in which they live, work, study, transit, or travel experience a conflict or natural disaster. Through a broad and inclusive consultative process, launched in 2014, the MICIC Initiative developed Guidelines to Protect Migrants in Countries Experiencing Conflict or Natural Disaster (The Guidelines).

CONSULTATION PROCESS

Six regional consultations were held with States and other key representatives to gather evidence and discuss good practices. Civil society provided consolidated input through the organization of parallel regional consultations. Three stakeholder consultations enabled the active engagement of a broad range of actors from civil society, international organizations, and the private sector.

WHY MIGRANTS?

When conflicts or natural disasters erupt, migrants may require targeted assistance. Migrants have unique vulnerabilities, needs, and capacities, which can be overlooked in crisis preparedness, emergency response, and recovery. Some of the challenges that create particular needs for migrants in crisis situations include:

- Language barriers
- Lost, destroyed or confiscated identity or travel documents
- Isolated working conditions and limited social networks
- Discrimination
- Insufficient inclusion in preparedness and response frameworks

GUIDELINES TO PROTECT
MIGRANTS IN COUNTRIES
EXPERIENCING CONFLICT
OR NATURAL DISASTER

GUIDELINES TO PROTECT MIGRANTS IN COUNTRIES EXPERIENCING CONFLICT OR NATURAL DISASTER

The Guidelines apply to situations in which migrants are present in a country experiencing a conflict or natural disaster. They provide concrete and practical guidance to stakeholders at the local, national, regional, and international levels on how to prepare for and respond to crises in ways that protect and empower migrants, leverage their capacities, and help migrants and communities recover from crises. The Guidelines therefore address the full cycle of crises – crisis preparedness, emergency response, and post crisis action.

THE GUIDELINES PROVIDE GUIDANCE FOR DIFFERENT STAKEHOLDERS

STATES bear the principal responsibility for assisting and protecting migrants. The Guidelines address roles and responsibilities of States of origin, host States and States of transit.

PRIVATE SECTOR actors make significant contributions as providers of services. Employers and recruiters play an important role in protecting their migrant workers before, during, and after crises.

CIVIL SOCIETY actors are among the first responders and migrants' advocates and allies. They can be a critical bridge between governments and migrants.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS provide direct assistance to migrants and their communities, as well as crucial support to States and other stakeholders.

THE GUIDELINES COMPRISE PRINCIPLES, GUIDELINES, AND PRACTICES

The ten PRINCIPLES are fundamental, cross-cutting precepts, drawn in some instances from international law. The principles are intended to inform, underpin, and guide all actions to protect migrants.

The fifteen GUIDELINES are targeted suggestions, organized by crisis phase and theme that identify in broad terms the types of actions needed to better protect migrants.

The PRACTICES are a selection of examples that illustrate ways in which each stakeholder can implement the guidelines. They are based on existing practices as well as recommendations and can be adapted to suit particular contexts and priorities.

ONLINE REPOSITORY OF PRACTICES

An online repository of practices complements the Guidelines. It comprises a selection of existing practices of States, international organizations, private sector actors, and civil society. The repository can assist stakeholders to exchange knowledge and expertise.
